Sector Overview

Food & Beverage Market

The food and beverage industry in Indonesia has been seeing expansion and high dynamics during the last few years and shows good prospects for further growth. It is one of the major drivers of Indonesia's economy and a popular investment target. Indonesia's economy grew 5% YOY in Q2 2017, with rising investment offsetting a drop in government spending and a deceleration in export growth. Additionally the sector has experienced more than 6% annual growth during the last 10 years overall. In August 2017, the Indonesian central bank lowered its benchmark interest rate to 4.5% from 4.75% in an attempt to boost consumption. President Joko Widodo reshuffled the Cabinet in 2016 to accelerate GDP growth. In November 2016, the government announced its 14th economic stimulus package to incentivise the e-commerce and creative industries. In 1H 2017, FDI inflow to Indonesia reached US$16 billion, most of which went to the sectors of mining; metal, machinery, and electronics; electricity, gas, and water supply; chemical and pharmaceutical; and food.

The market structure of the food and beverage industry as well as the retail sector in Indonesia is composed of foreign as well as local companies. The F&B sector consisted of 5,865 manufacturing companies and 832,830 workers in 2012 and is consistently grow-ing. Indonesia is expected to become one of the world's largest food suppliers, although it has not yet reached its full potential in terms of agricultural food production yet. The country mainly produces rice, corn, and soybeans, but still has to import significantly - particularly wheat - in order to meet local demand. The Indonesian beverage market prospects remain positive. With a population made up of a Muslim majority, Indonesia's soft drink industry share is substantial. The top three favorite consumptions are hot cof-fee, tea and iced tea drinks. From 2013 to 2017 sales in the retail sector are predicted to grow even further up to 12.9%. The Indonesian market for consumer goods is expected to reach a market volume of EUR 1.7 billion by 2030, while the F&B sector overall is expected to grow 9.8% per year on average from 2015 to 2019.

Agribusiness Market

Indonesia's dynamic agribusiness sector in Indonesia is promising and plays an undeniable relevant role in the country's economy as it contributes 10.3% to the country's GDP in 2014 and the agricultural industry accounts for 42 percent of the country's total employment. In addition to its strong domestic capacity, the agribusiness sector is one of the main industrial development priorities set by the country's government as well as an important field for both domestic and foreign investment. In 2014 imports and ex-ports of agribusiness products amounted to EUR 10.43 billion and EUR 32.5 billion respectively. Based on current data, the EU ex-port value to Indonesia has steadily increased; from EUR 634 million in 2012 to EUR 678 million in 2013.

Poultry is still the most consumed meat in Indonesia and has the biggest market share for livestock. Day old chicks and feed are two products that are mostly produced locally by major companies such as Japfa and Charoen Phokphand. The dairy cattle and beef cat-tle population in Indonesia are mostly held by small-scale farmers, who only raise livestock for future emergency cash. The country imports breeding cattle, feeder cattle, live cattle, as well as frozen meat to fulfill its demand for beef.

If you cancel your participation 4 weeks before the start of the event or do not attend the individual cooperation talks on site, the participation fee will not be reimbursed.

Visa Entry requirements for EU Nationals

Source: <http://www.imigrasi.go.id/index.php/en/public-services/visit-visa#general-info> (Directorate General of Immigration, Ministry of Law and Human Rights of Indonesia)

EU citizens need a visa to enter Indonesia.

Tourists or business travelers who are not planning to work can receive a visa for a stay of 30 days upon arrival (Visa On Arrival) for $ 35 USD. When paying in euros or US dollars, the return will be in Indonesian rupiah. Payment is only possible with cash. The Foreign Office advises, for practical reasons, to have available the amount at arrival in USD. A one-time extension of the visa for another 30 days is possible. This extension must be requested at least seven working days before the first 30-day visa expires. The application can be filed with any branch of the Indonesian immigration office Imigrasi. The fee is 30, - USD (300,000 IDR). It is not possible to get a visa for 60 days immediately. If a longer stay is planned, the visa must be requested prior to entry. If the visa is collected upon entry, the return ticket must be presented.

A visa on arrival is only possible at certain border crossing points. This includes the airport in Jakarta. If you are arriving at another border crossing point, we kindly ask you to check with the Indonesian Embassy and to apply for a visa before you enter the country.

A visa on arrival is only possible upon presentation of a passport. Travel documents must be valid for at least six months after entry. If entry is planned with a temporary passport, the visa must be applied for prior to entry. For all other purposes (such as employment or research, study visit, seminar attendance as a speaker), the appropriate visa must be obtained prior to entry to the relevant Indonesian mission abroad. In particular, a journalistic activity (this includes the photojournalism service) requires a visa prior to entry.
